The Next World War

By REV. HARRY G. DEEDS ator, the Greenwood Evangelical Church. OUGHT WE JOIN IN THE NEXT WORLD WAR!

There is no question in my mind but that the United States should join in another world war. This world war is involve, not half the nations of this world, but every nation and every country of the world. Not only should every man and every country of the world. Not only should every man and every man and get in this great confleagation, but every boy and girl big enough to carry THE SWORD and every man and woman of wantever age, should out of the spirit of loyalty to God and their country, voluntarily join the arginal announcement proclaimed from every housetop, and by every other means, that this great conflict, which we are hoping will begin at once is a world war, men would give God tightful place in their lives, Sunday schools would flourish, and more churches would have such a world war, men would give God rightful place in their lives, Sunday schools would flourish, and more churches would have to be built to accommodate the country, voluntarily join the cassate army and get into the thick of wazes need to fight. I believe that there should be a general announcement proposed in the second second to the second sec acroan the catacric crimes in the enemy. ### Everybody Fights.

A cor-propose detail of the specific revois the Spanish woman with a title of a re-volver. Has the world findly as epicd the bid of the female warrior for unlitary fame on a "no fuvers" basis?

Equality of the erres at the ballot box implies equality in other exciences of citizenable. Not only that, but it necessitates active engagement in politics. From he longing to a political organization to fighting for it is only a short step.

It may be expected, therefore, that women will become more active in all public ofthe principle of equality is contributing to the trend. The manner of waging war, itself, has broken down the distinction between combatants and non-combatants. In modern warfare, everybody fights. The struggle is not between armies, between populations

What participation of women in civil and International war may lead to in the long run is an open question. Women are vig prous baters. It has been said in the past that they were more inclined toward needless crucky against those they hated than were the men who dealt directly with the enemy.

It remains to be seen whether or not was will be gentler or flercer when women equint through gunsights and wicht the bayonet. One swallow doesn't make an aviary and one careful wuman driver dough't make all members of her sex fall in line-but did you see the news from Calfornie? In common with many other suvereignties, the sunshine sinto picked its "safest" automobile driver -and the winner was a woman.

Fifty-soven-year-old Mrs. Nell A. Leavitt has been driving since 1902 and has covered 650,000 miles without a reportable accident. She has a long list of maxims which she observes but she sums up her driving credo in the heller that "common courtesy und everlasting elertness could drive audden death from the highways" but she does get results. If her credo were adopted by all motorists, men and women there would be few if any of "those women" or "Sunday" drivets left. The highways might always load to pleasant adventine and seldom to sudden death if common courtesy ruled the roads,

The pusiness of this country can not be run from Washington, he declared. For a time, he added, the people were hypnorized by the idea that the government could do everything but they did not stay hypnutized. Common sense and experimer compel acceptance of the coloneia

On the other hand, honesty impels one to remember one of the late Lincoln Staffent' firmest convictions, After witnessing many efforts at reform in municipal government, led mostly by merchant and industrial princes. Steffens concluded that businessmen do not make good political governors. Their way of doing things, their attitude toward management, he believed, were en tirely impractical for affairs of govern-

Happily, the two convictions don't contradict each other. Like oil and water, government and business just don't mix. At times there may be justification for pouring a little government oil on business waters and frequently government could du with a dash of business efficiency-but habitually the two don't mix. If the Washington mixologists would stop trying to produce the "perfect coektail" with oil and water, the country might get back to the normal practice of drinking its water straight.

Samples.

When a chemist tears a sample of steel, he is almost certain his annivers of the sample will show exactly the chemical content of the whole heat of steel. He is almost certain because he is dealing with known and controlluble factors. But a person who takes a "ladia applysis" of political pelitions and then asserts how many signatures are valid in the whole group, is an unreliable political chemist.

Yet in effect, Secretary of State George S. Myers has authorized Ohio counties to lake such samples on the petitions askins for a referendum on Gov. Davey's proposal to eliminate the sales tax on food for hume use. In utging speedy checking of the petitions upon the counties, Secretary Myers has "suggested" a canvass be made of only 10 per cent of the petitions and that the results obtained be multiplied by 10 to de termine the validity of the total numbers of alguatures.

Probably Mr. Myors is right in believing such a sampling will show an numistakable trend, for the governor's aids maintain they have obtained more than three times the required number of signers. Certainly he is cautions in asserting that such a procedure would not constitute a procedent for the future. Yet a recent experience in Cleveland shows the dangers of relying upon the sampling method where politics is concerned.

A test inspection of pelitions conversing an amendment to that citys' charter indicated enough signatures were invalid to defeat the referendum request. A larger sampling showed the reverse to be true.

Even though a complete check is likely to show many more valid signatures than necessary, must voters would feel morn assured if a thorough check were made. Despite the apparent sincerity of Mr Myers desire to expedite the review, the sampling process might become a habit-and a dan

It shouldn't be, for it Is going to cost $500,600,600 hefore it is fluished and it will take man; years to complete, and Republicants as well as Democrate in congress will be needed to push it through The east will have to be convinced non-partitionally why an annual appropriation of $50,000,600 for ten years is a worthwhile investment for the eastern taxpayer.

I came here with a lot of questions in my mind about Grand Coulte, which is the largest project of its kind on the North American continent. It is to have three times the capacity of Boulder dam While I was given many logical and satisfying answers, I am inclined to believe that the spending of $500,000,000 is a risky thing if we are going in have politicians in command of our nutional resources, to be used by them as a football of political ambition.

I found the answers to most of my questions in a very excellent report just issued by the state planning council at Olympia, a commission of level-headed business men appointed by Gov. Mattin. It makes a case for reclamation as a financial success.

appointed by Gov. Martin. It makes a case for reclamation as a financial success.

But I can't are how industrica are ever going to be attracted to the state of Washington to use the surplus power generated at Grand Coulce if the Democratic state pisition or this year, which provides for "production for use" and a socialistic form of government, really represents the wished of the people of Washington. Nor can I understand how all the power is going to be used if its sales is restricted to municipal governments or districts. Clearly there must be nome way by which the wonderful supply or water power can be used beneficially so that, on the one hand, it will not break down an existing business investment, and, on the other hand, will give this region the bourdt of rheap power. It seems to me a sensible solution of this problem can be found along samewhat the same principle as is now in offect at Fanilder dans. Certainly there is a surplus of power here today, but this may not always he the case. Private rempanies could very well contract for future beeds instead of building more power projects of their own—they ought to be able to buy their additional power from Grund Coulee. But for many years to come, power sales will hardly bring the income that its sponsors, in their enthusiasm, foresce.

The Grand Coulee project was ariginally conteyed as an irrigation plan, and it should be so regarded, even if it means that the profit and loss slatement does not show as much net income from power sales as is predicted by those who like to minimize on paper the ultimate cost.

The building of the great dam known as Grand Coulee has cost already about

The building of the great dam known as Grand Coulee has cost aircoily about $43,000,000 If will take another $170,000,000 to Ilnish the high dam and then it will require another $225,000,000 to complete the various irrigation projects proposed, not all of this is to be done at once. not all of this is to be deep at other year of the money were all authorized, it is doubtful if mone than $50,000,000 a year could be spent aconomically in the next ten years. Busiles, the very success of the project depends on its orderly and gradual development.

Is it worth $50,000,000 to open up this country to settlement? What are the henefits to the east and other sections of the United States? You will be told here that nearly all of the expense will be met directly by water charges paid by the farmers and that the intangible benefits to the nation in increased commerce and a prosperous agriculture will more than offset the expense. expanse.
As for reclamation repayments, the record expense.

As for reclamation repayments, the record on the whole is excellent. Thus, the total of all 46 bureon of reclamation projects in our history was $237.462,469, according to the intest available figures, and, out of this, $221,301,806 had been repaid in the Yakima area less than one-tenth of one per cent—only $27.877—remains unpaid out of the net cost, including operation and maintenance amounting to $28.789,524.

The plan to reclaim agricultural land requires water power to irrigate the valley. Without the water power, the irrigation project is not as fractible. Rural electrification will also absorb some of the power. But, basically, the Grand Coules cannot be looked upon as a power project alone. It must be viewed in its relation to possible development of the 1,200,000 acres of land which are to be reclaimed and settled upon. These projects are too large for state financing and involve interstate uses of water. Unloubledly, the cleven western states can never be agriculturally self-sustaining, but they do need to put more land in production to help ear for their growing population. With 160,400,000 acres of land area, only $4,300,000 are actually or patentially arable—a little more than the entire area of Nebreska. These cleven states have 9 per cent of the total population, but only 45 per cent of the farmed and cropped area.

Of the $4,500,000 acres new and pefecularly.

Of the $4,500,000 acres now and potentially Of the M30000 acres now and perionizally arable, 24 800000 are not irritated. Most of it has little rainfall. To pur 1200000 acres into production, which is the aim of the Grand Couler plan is not to provide wheat, but fortgo or limbor use, and also specially repressint the critical fruits, applies, take and with grapes and other crops not only needed here but in demand in other parts.

It is far more likely the President has heard what every well informed politician here has been told, namely that there is some dissortisfaction in the south, and he is going down there to do a little fence mending and pep talking.

Doubting

Republicans have been enthusiastically goastlping about carrying Virginia and North Carolina for some time. Col. Knox, the fighting vice presidential candidate, amounced in Virginia the other night that he considered it a doubtful state.

What started all this is something which has not yet broken in the news. Democratic congressmen, returning to their homes, foundmany of the leading citizens in sume of their communities murrouring against the latest turn of

On Aug 20, the poll showed 55.5 per cent for Roseevell. This was just about the President's standing in the same pell list year. The Times-Dispatch, therefore, has concluded "I is obvious that there has been in shift in the normally strong Democratic leanings of Virginians".

They was a few congretational primaries, but not enough to give them any hopes of formidable attempth in either the house or senate. In fact, the figures in these and earlier primaries, as a whole, indicate they will not be a major influence in the presidental race unless the vote is very, very close in a number of states.

tains Clinic That Rebuilds Any Type of Shoe

a choic shop that does more than simply repair shoes is operated at the Lussins & Fearn store on East Center street. It is a shoe clinic rather than a shot shop for here shoes are not only resoled but rebulle that pinch your feet can be made comfortable According to Pete Fetter who openers the shop any shee can be made from one half to two sizes longer and wider The same thing in reverse holds true for shoes that are too large A pump that is too large can be cut down at the instep the sides can be taken in and the shoe rebound

The Chesins & Fearn shop also is able to convert suede shoes into smooth black leather

WALLACE STARK AND HIS CAR

1924 after many years in the United States Indian service is still driving his first car a 1926 Chevrolet It hearn t reached the retirement age he says. Stark on a recent visit at Defroit told Chevrolet executives of the record of his car which has been almost every where in the United States Starks four cylinder coupe has been illeensed every year since he bought it but never twice is sue cession in the same slate. This year it has a Florida cag. No matter where he goes Stark curries certain items of special equipment not to be found on many cars. Strapped to the back humper is a long handled showed on the running board are two gal vanized from came for drinking water. They are for emergency use only in the desert.

Stark was born in Jowa 16 years ago. In 1892 he went into what is now Utah to work as a carpon for on the erection of an Indian school. In 1905, he entered the United States Indian service at a reservation near the Colorado.

committee of my home district innoised me by nonmanting me for congress. Young said but my decision is made to decline the norm ination.

While I am et all times willing to saurifice my per ornal increasis for the welfare of our party. It is my hope that this committee will unanimously select some candidate to assure success and I nersonally know a number of loyal Democratis residue; in the district was with the support of will 10 committeemen from the five counties comprising the district, are capable of leading our party to victory. Young said it was his intention to campaign vigorously and en thusiastically for this nominee provided he supports whole heartedly. President Franklin D. Poosevelt and the administration recovery program commonly called the new deal and repudiates the blatanianatic fringe who indorse the fantastic proposal of Dr. Iown send who is a charlatan a faker a chain lefter racketeer a fraud or by demogogic fulminations and inserter-entations seeks to discredit this nation's greatest leader since Abraham Lincoln.
